Retracing the forgotten history of Chinese shrimp fishing around San Francisco Bay

IN PARTNERSHIP WITH
SAN FRANCISCO MARITIME NATIONAL HISTORICAL PARK

Join us for three unique and exciting public programs as Chinese Whispers: Bay Chronicles retraces the forgotten history of Chinese shrimp fishing in San Francisco Bay, through sailings on the Grace Quan, a 43-foot replica of a 19th century Chinese shrimp junk, to former Chinese shrimping sites around the Bay.

An interdisciplinary team of visual, sound, and media artists led by CW Director Rene Yung will chronicle the sails, along with historical ecologists from the San Francisco Estuary Institute, and John C. Muir, archaeologist and Curator of Small Craft at the San Francisco Maritime National Historical Park, who led the building of the Park's Grace Quan, will be her skipper. The project will culminate in a transmedia art installation at the Maritime Park in 2015.

Mark your calendar for these one-of-a-kind public programs that connect local sites to the larger history of Chinese shrimp fishing in the Bay. Each will be a distinct, unforgettable experience!

STAY TUNED FOR MORE DETAILS!
